KNOTTY PROBLEM TO REDISTRICT MINNESOTA

21 Women Give Ideas on National Prohibition

IS SUPPLEMENT TO WICKERSHAM REPORT MADE

PREPARED BECAUSE WICKERSHAM STATEMENT CARRIED NO "WOMAN'S VIEWPOINT"

WOMEN ARE OPPOSED TO ALL PROPOSED SUBSTITUTES TO PROHIBITION LAWS

Washington, April 11.—(U.P.)—The opinion of 21 women on national prohibition, prepared as a supplement to the Wickersham report, was delivered to the White House at noon today for the perusal of President Hoover.

The unanimous report of the "National Women's Commission for Law Enforcement," prepared in the belief that the official Wickersham findings did not embrace the "woman's point of view," is unequivocally for continuation and strengthening of the federal prohibition laws. It is opposed to all proposed substitutes, including:

1. "Entrance into the liquor business of federal or state governments.
2. "Modification of the existing laws.
3. "Revisions.
4. "The so-called Anderson plan for regulated liquor dispensaries.
5. "Resubmission of the eighteenth amendment to the people through convention or through referendum."

"It would seem," the report says, "that two things should be established before the repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment is considered:

"First, there should be substantial agreement among sincere and informed citizens, that the loss is greater than the gain from prohibition.

"Second, there should be substantial agreement among those opposed to the eighteenth amendment, as to what alternative method of control of the liquor traffic should be substituted for prohibition.

"We are opposed to resubmission of the eighteenth amendment to the people through convention or through referendum. It would open the door for reconsideration of any or all constitutional provisions.

"We maintain that the question has been referred to the people in every congressional election, with the result that after five such elections there are today more members of congress favorable to prohibition than at any time of the passage of the amendment."

"Prohibition," says the report, "is the American method for dealing with the social problem of the liquor traffic. The fact that the federal constitution is the people's law, and that it provides for orderly and legal change and amendment makes revolution and nullification always wrong in our country."

It charged that "the chief obstacle to satisfactory enforcement is the alliance of corrupt politics and the liquor interests, a condition which was not inaugurated by the 18th amendment but was the reason for that constitutional law."

Attacking proposals for legalization of wines and beer, the report said:

"It is a fact that ninety per cent of drunkenness before prohibition was beer drunkenness, and a beer drunkard is a terrible spectacle."

Opponents of prohibition, says the report, have prevented the truth from being disseminated, and "many channels of publicity are virtually closed to prohibition factual information."

The general statement accompanying the report expressed admiration and support of President Hoover.

CHIEF JUSTICE HUGHES OBSERVES BIRTHDAY

Washington, April 11.—(U.P.)—Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes observed his birthday today in a manner befitting his 69 active years in public life.

He planned to spend the day, which beckons thousands to the countryside, closeted with his eight associate justices, whipping into shape a batch of complicated court opinions to be handed down Monday noon.

His strict attention to duty is attributed chiefly to his inability to leave work undone. And the supreme court is a busy place just now.

As its head Hughes has had to carry on the tradition which has been built up in his lifetime. He must keep things running smoothly in order to avoid any snarl which might throw pending litigation into a tangle.

Northern Wisconsin Has First Fire

Ashland, Wis., April 11.—(U.P.)—Northern Wisconsin's first forest fires of 1931 were reported under control today.

Three blazes started yesterday in timber and brush areas near Melien, threatening for a time to sweep across a wide region left dry by long-continued drought.

Fire crews halted the fires when strong northwest winds subsided today.

TO INVESTIGATE HISTORICAL FIND, CORONADO RELICS

Pierre, S. D., April 11.—(U.P.)—State Historian L. K. Fox planned today to visit the Red Canyon district in Fall River county to investigate seals and maps said to have been used by Coronado, sixteenth century Spanish explorer.

The documents were found by Frank Baker of Edgemont in a gully in Red Canyon, according to telegrams to the State Historical society.

The route followed by Coronado when he journeyed north in 1540 took him as far north as Nebraska, Fox said.

CAPT. IRA EAKER ON ONE-STOP FLIGHT ACROSS CONTINENT

LEFT BURBANK, CALIF., EARLY IN MORNING FOR NEW YORK CITY

HOPES TO BREAK WEST-EAST SPEED RECORD HELD BY CAPT. HAWKS

Wichita, Kas., April 11.—(U.P.)—Capt. Ira Eaker was believed flying safely on his way east this afternoon after momentary alarm over reports that a plane had crashed.

Capt. Eaker took off from the Wichita airport at 11:54:53 A. M. on the second leg of his transcontinental flight.

A few moments later a telephone message was received reporting that a plane had gone into a tail spin about ten miles east of Wichita.

Burbank, Calif., April 11.—(U.P.)—Captain Ira Eaker, United States army pilot, took off from United Airport at 3:39 A. M. PST. today on a projected one-stop flight to New York City.

He hoped to break the west-east speed record of 12 hours, 25 minutes, 3 seconds set by Capt. Frank Hawks August 13, 1930. With a tail wind, Capt. Eaker expected to make the trip in 10 hours.

Weather conditions were reported good as far as Wichita, Kas., but beyond that point there was a low ceiling.

More than 350 gallons of gasoline had been pumped into the plane's wing tanks, and the 540-horsepower Wasp motor was running smoothly.

Capt. Eaker planned to follow the great circle route on the 2,477 mile flight, passing over Albuquerque, N. M., and stopping at Wichita, Kas., for 20 minutes to take on 300 gallons of fuel.

His engine was equipped with a super-charger. Oxygen tanks were carried because he thought that flying above 16,000 feet for any length of time would make breathing difficult.

The Lockheed plane which Capt. Eaker is flying was loaned to the army by its builders. It is equipped with speed wings and detachable landing gear, making it capable of a speed of 240 miles per hour.

On an attempt at a non-stop flight to New York a month ago, Capt. Eaker's ship crashed near Tolu, Ky., when the fuel pressure failed.

Thousands of mourners for the man widely known as just plain "Nick," belated as few men in public life, swelled the official funeral party which filled the Episcopal Christ's Church to overflowing long before the president and Mrs. Hoover arrived for the services at 1:45 P. M.

Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, the nationally beloved "Princess Alice" because of her White House courtship by the debonair young Longworth, was comforted during the brief ceremonies by the presence of her mother, Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Sr., by her brothers Archie and Kermit Roosevelt, by her sister, Mrs. Richard Derby, the former Ethel Roosevelt, and close Cincinnati friends of the Longworth family.

A pathetic participant was little Paulina Longworth, 6-year-old daughter of the dead speaker of the national house of representatives, who warned Allen the state would have the tonsil operations performed anyway, if the children grew worse.

CHURCH AND STATE CLASH ON TONSILS

New York, April 11.—(U.P.)—Church and state clashed today over the issue of removing tonsils.

William H. Allen of Port Washington, L. I., refused to allow his three children to undergo tonsillectomies because he belongs to the Pillar of Fire church, which, he said, forbids "cutting the human body."

The meeting was held in the governor's office.

Kvale declined to comment on the house reapportionment measure which would split his congressional district, the seventh, and put him in competition for his seat with a republican.

STATESMAN BURIED WITH HONORS

Nicholas Longworth, veteran speaker of the House of Representatives, was mourned today by an entire nation while noted luminaries of public affairs, including President Herbert Hoover, attended funeral rites for him at Cincinnati, O.

By FOSTER EATON

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Cincinnati, O., April 11.—Nicholas Longworth, son of Ohio, servant of America, and friend of mankind, was paid simple, impressive final tribute here today by representatives from all walks of life.

The man who was born to wealth but ignored its temptations to devote life to public service, was borne to a final resting place in Spring Grove cemetery this afternoon.

President and Mrs. Herbert Hoover, Vice President Curtis, Gov. George White of Ohio, a distinguished representation from congress, members of the Ohio state government, county officials and friends joined with relatives of the dead leader in funeral services at Christ's Church.

The depth of esteem Longworth enjoyed among his political contemporaries was strikingly attested by the obliteration of party ties noticeable in the funeral party.

Representative John Garner of Texas, close personal friend of the former speaker but for years his outspoken political antagonist, came from Texas to pay tribute to "Nick," his rival for speakership of the house. Garner was but one of literally scores of congressional members who came.

Thousands of mourners for the man widely known as just plain "Nick," belated as few men in public life, swelled the official funeral party which filled the Episcopal Christ's Church to overflowing long before the president and Mrs. Hoover arrived for the services at 1:45 P. M.

Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, the nationally beloved "Princess Alice" because of her White House courtship by the debonair young Longworth, was comforted during the brief ceremonies by the presence of her mother, Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Sr., by her brothers Archie and Kermit Roosevelt, by her sister, Mrs. Richard Derby, the former Ethel Roosevelt, and close Cincinnati friends of the Longworth family.

POLICE OF TWO STATES HUNT FOR FRED J. BLUMER

WIFE AND DAUGHTER SEEK TO BARGAIN SECRETLY WITH KIDNAPERS

RICH MANUFACTURER OF MONROE, WIS., WAS HELD FOR $150,000 RANSOM

Monroe, Wis., April 11.—(U.P.)—Police of two states hunted today for Fred J. Blumer, wealthy near-beer manufacturer, while his wife and 20-year-old daughter sought to bargain secretly with kidnapers who held him for $150,000 ransom.

The daughter, Marion, and her mother awaited the telephone call which the kidnapers had said they would make today. Authorities were reported to have "tapped" wires into the Blumer home and to be prepared for quick action in case relatives tried to obtain Blumer's release without giving police a chance to apprehend the kidnapers.

Blumer, who is 50 and president of the Blumer Products Company which formerly was a brewery and now manufactures soft drinks, was kidnaped Thursday night while on his way to a country club meeting.

A few hours later A. E. Wells, an official of the company, received a mysterious telephone call that Blumer was being held for 150 "grand" and that his automobile would be found in Freeport, Ill. The car was found.

Sheriff Myron West of Green county and other officials of Wisconsin and Illinois, believed Blumer either was a prisoner in some roadside or in Chicago, where other wealthy men were taken when kidnaped for ransom in recent months.

Theories that Blumer had been mistaken for his nephew, Robert Blumer, former sheriff, and that he had been "taken for a ride" were discounted.

Officials of his company denied rumors that real beer had been shipped recently from the Blumer plant and that the kidnaping might have been the result of a gang war.

Blumer's wife expressed regret that police had learned of the kidnaping.

"If the police had not learned of it, my husband might have been returned safely for a few thousand dollars," she said. "As it is, he may be harmed."

Mrs. Blumer and officials of her husband's company said it was impossible to raise $150,000. It was said, however, Mrs. Blumer was prepared to offer as much as $15,000 for her husband's freedom.

In recent years there have been many reports in the midwest of kidnapings of wealthy men, especially bankers, bootleggers, gamblers, and manufacturers. In practically all the cases, no reports were made until after the abducted men returned home.

The victims refused, upon returning, to tell how much had been paid for their release. Many indicated they had been held in Chicago.

"Nick" Longworth's grave at Spring Grove rests beneath the shading limbs of a giant oak tree, covered with spreading ivy. It is near the center of the Longworth lot, amid the elder members of an illustrious family to whose name he brought, added lustre.

The extreme simplicity of the tribute paid here today was in keeping with the wishes of Mrs. Longworth, who did not desire national honors to which her husband was entitled by virtue of his long and peculiarly distinguished career. The formal informality of the lives of "Nick and Alice" characterized the end of Longworth's brilliant career.

Active pallbearers at the church and cemetery were Archie and Kermit Roosevelt, Buckner A. Jr., Landon L. and Nicholas L. Wallingford, nephews of Longworth; Charles Davis, John Emery and Lucien Wolsin, Cincinnati. More than 200 honorary pallbearers were designated.

Immediately after the burial service at the cemetery, President and Mrs. Hoover returned to their special train—which awaited on a nearby siding—and began the return trip to Washington. They had visited the Longworth home on arrival, leaving a floral tribute of ivy, holly and fern, three feet in diameter, tied with bronze-green ribbon from the horticultural department at Washington.

Wednesday—Four cent gasoline taxation was killed in the house, which also refused to establish a six day working week.

Thursday—The house passed its own reapportionment bill splitting up the present seventh district. The senate passed a measure reducing the prices of farm machinery and twice produced at the state prison at Bayport. Senators set 11 a. m. next Wednesday for consideration of the metropolitan sewerage disposal consideration.

Friday—Governor Floyd B. Olson sent a message to both houses of the legislature regarding the revision of the securities commission. The senate passed its reapportionment bill, forcing the issue to be settled in conference.

HENRI VERBRUGGHEN HONORED BY KING ALBERT OF BELGIUM

Minneapolis, April 11.—(U.P.)—Henri Verbruggen, conductor of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, has been made an officer of the order of the Royal Belgian Crown in recognition by King Albert of Belgium of the conductor's work with the Minneapolis orchestra.

A cross emblematic of the order was presented to Verbruggen by Orren Safford, Belgian consul in Minneapolis, during the intermission of a symphony program last night.

Despite a wide divergency between the senate bill which was passed late yesterday and the house bill, passed Thursday, leaders of both houses predicted that the entire problem of redistricting the state's 10 congressional districts to nine will be settled within a week.

In the debate which preceded passage of the senate measure, several senators declared they had no intention of allowing the present legislative session to approach its close without a reapportionment plan being adopted.

Senator Claude H. Mackenzie of Gaylord introduced the amendment which changed the bill passed in the senate from the house bill in almost every respect.

The senate plan would leave the first, second, fourth and eighth congressional districts unchanged and would place Congressman Harold Knutson of St. Cloud and Godfrey G. Goodwin of Fergus Falls in the same district.

Goodwin, it was believed, would be given a federal judgeship to replace his congressional seat. Both he and Knutson are republicans.

Under the house bill, Paul J. Kvale, farmer-laborer of the seventh, and Frank Clague, republican of the second, would be thrown together.

Here is the line-up of the bills passed by each house:

First District
House—Adds Blue Earth and Faribault counties from present second district.

Second District
House—Combines the remaining second district with the southern half of the seventh.

Third District
House—Removes Hennepin and adds Brown county from the second, Meeker from the seventh and Wright from the 10th.

Fourth District
House—Removes Lake of the Woods and Beltrami counties; adds Mille Lacs, Kanabec, Pine, Isanti, Chisago and Anoka from the 10th.

Fifth District
House—Minneapolis except four wards which are added to third. Senate—Same as house.

Sixth District
Senate—Removes Lake of the Woods and Beltrami counties; adds Mille Lacs, Kanabec, Pine, Isanti, Chisago and Anoka from the 10th.

Seventh District
Senate—Adds Wright from 10th, otherwise remains same as now.

Eighth District
House—Combines southern half of district with second and northern half with ninth.

Ninth District
Senate—Abolished. House—Abolished.

Tenth District
Senate—Abolished. House—Abolished.

Here are the only points on which the house and senate bills agree, therefore:

1. Tenth district shall be abolished.

2. Political complexities of all other districts shall be retained.

3. Fourth and eighth districts must remain unchanged.

4. Fifth district, which comprises most of Minneapolis, shall be practically unchanged.

SENATE AND HOUSE AT VARIANCE IN CHANGES PLANNED

OPTIMISTIC ONES HOPE DIFFERENCES WILL BE IRONED OUT IN WEEK

SENATE CUTS AND ADDS TO 6TH DISTRICT, HOUSE ADDS 3 COUNTIES

St. Paul, Minn., April 11.—(U.P.)—The knotty problem of redistricting Minnesota in accordance with the 1930 census went to a joint conference of committees from both houses today where it was hoped that bills passed by the house and senate would be brought into agreement.

Despite a wide divergency between the senate bill which was passed late yesterday and the house bill, passed Thursday, leaders of both houses predicted that the entire problem of redistricting the state's 10 congressional districts to nine will be settled within a week.

ST. CLOUD CITY FINANCES ARE GIVEN REVIEW

IRREGULARITIES IN CONDUCTING AFFAIRS POINTED OUT BY PUBLIC EXAMINER

ONE REPORT MADE ON PETITION OF VOTERS, ANOTHER AT MAYOR'S REQUEST

St. Paul, Minn., April 11.—(U.P.)—Irregularities in conducting the financial affairs of the city of St. Cloud are pointed out in two reports on the city made public today by A. R. Johnson, chief state public examiner.

One of the reports, made on petition of the city's voters, covers the period from 1927 to 1929, while the other, which is for 1930, was made at the request of the mayor.

The reports point out that the city's treasurer had been in charge of accounts which should have been under the supervision of the city clerk. This, it was pointed out, left no safeguard against misappropriation of funds.

That an assistant cashier misappropriated $2,212.48 of the city's funds in 1929, also was reported. However, that has since been admitted and reimbursement has been made.

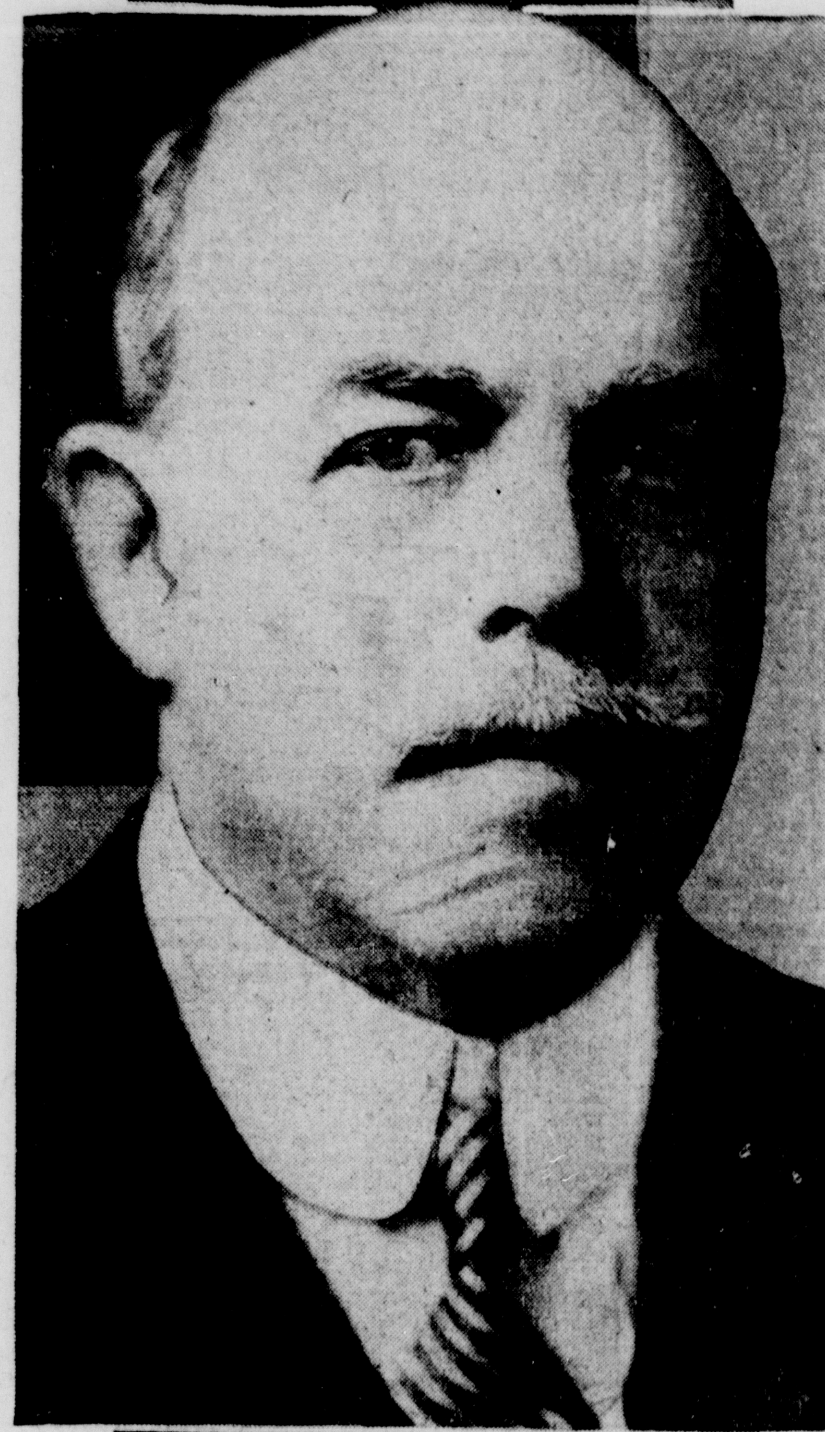

CHURCH AND STATE CLASH ON TONSILS

New York, April 11.—(U.P.)—Church and state clashed today over the issue of removing tonsils.

William H. Allen of Port Washington, L. I., refused to allow his three children to undergo tonsillectomies because he belongs to the Pillar of Fire church, which, he said, forbids "cutting the human body."

Judge Lewis Smith, to whom welfare workers had taken the case,

STATESMAN BURIED WITH HONORS

Nicholas Longworth, veteran speaker of the House of Representatives, was mourned today by an entire nation while noted luminaries of public affairs, including President Herbert Hoover, attended funeral rites for him at Cincinnati, O.

By FOSTER EATON

(United Press Staff Correspondent) Cincinnati, O., April 11.—Nicholas Longworth, son of Ohio, servant of America, and friend of mankind, was paid simple, impressive final tribute here today by representatives from all walks of life.

The man who was born to wealth but ignored its temptations to devote life to public service, was borne to a final resting place in Spring Grove cemetery this afternoon.

President and Mrs. Herbert Hoover, Vice President Curtis, Gen. George White of Ohio, a distinguished representation from congress, members of the Ohio state government, county officials and friends joined with relatives of the dead leader in funeral services at Christ's Church.

The depth of esteem Longworth enjoyed among his political contemporaries was strikingly attested by the obliteration of party ties noticeable in the funeral party.

Representative John Garner of Texas, close personal friend of the former speaker but for years his outspoken political antagonist, came from Texas to pay tribute to "Nick," his rival for speakership of the house. Garner was but one of literally scores of congressional members who came.

Thousands of mourners for the man widely known as just plain "Nick," beloved as few men in public life, swelled the official funeral party which filled the Episcopal Christ's Church to overflowing long before the president and Mrs. Hoover arrived for the services at 1:45 P. M.

Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, the nationally beloved "Princess Alice" because of her White House courtship by the debonair young Longworth, was comforted during the brief ceremonies by the presence of her mother, Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Sr., by her brothers Archie and Kermit Roosevelt, by her sister, Mrs. Richard Derby, the former Ethel Roosevelt, and close Cincinnati friends of the Longworth family.

A pathetic participant was little Paulina Longworth, 6-year-old daughter of the dead speaker of the national house of representatives, who did not learn of his passing at Aiken, S. C., Thursday until the body arrived at the Longworth mansion, "Rockwood," early today. The casket, previously sealed, was opened for a brief final view by relatives.

The Right Rev. Henry Wise Hobson, Episcopal bishop coadjutor of the southern diocese of Ohio, officiated at the church and at the cemetery, where the simple reading of the Episcopal funeral and burial services was augmented only by the rendition of music.

Handel's "Largo," Mozart's "Ave Verum," Hayden's "Adeste Fideles," and the hymn "The Son of God Goes Forth to War," were the musical selections chosen by the family of Longworth, who was an accomplished pianist, violinist and cellist. There were no eulogies.

"Nick" Longworth's grave at Spring Grove rests beneath the shading limbs of a giant oak tree, covered with spreading ivy. It is near the center of the Longworth lot, amid the elder members of an illustrious family to whose name he brought added lustre.

The extreme simplicity of the tribute paid here today was in keeping with the wishes of Mrs. Longworth, who did not desire national honors to which her husband was entitled by virtue of his long and peculiarly distinguished career. The formal immortality of the lives of "Nick and Alice" characterized the end of Longworth's brilliant career.

Active pallbearers at the church and cemetery were Archie and Kermit Roosevelt, Buckner A. Jr., Landon L. and Nicholas L. Wallingford, nephews of Longworth; Charles Davis, John Emery and Lucien Wulfin, Cincinnati. More than 200 honorary pallbearers were designated.

Immediately after the burial service at the cemetery, President and Mrs. Hoover returned to their special train—which awaited on a nearby siding—and began the return trip to Washington. They had visited the Longworth home on arrival, leaving a floral tribute of ivy, holly and fern, three feet in diameter, tied with bronze-green ribbon from the horticultural department at Washington.

Blumer, who is 50 and president of the Blumer Products Company which formerly was a brewery and now manufactures soft drinks, was kidnapped Thursday night while on his way to a country club meeting.

A few hours later A. E. Wells, an official of the company, received a mysterious telephone call that Blumer was being held for 150 "grand" and that his automobile would be found in Freeport, Ill. The car was found.

Sheriff Myron West of Green county and other officials of Wisconsin, Illinois, believed Blumer either was a prisoner in some roadhouse or in Chicago, where other wealthy men were taken when kidnapped for ransom in recent months.

Theories that Blumer had been mistaken for his nephew, Robert Blumer, former sheriff, and that he had been "taken for a ride" were discounted.

Officials of his company denied rumors that real beer had been shipped recently from the Blumer plant and that the kidnapping might have been the result of a gang war.

Blumer's wife expressed regret that police had learned of the kidnapping.

"If the police had not learned of it, my husband might have been returned safely for a few thousand dollars," she said. "As it is, he may be harmed."

Mrs. Blumer and officials of her husband's company said it was impossible to raise $150,000. It was said, however, Mrs. Blumer was prepared to offer as much as $15,000 for her husband's freedom.

In recent years there have been many reports in the Midwest of kidnappings of wealthy men, especially bankers, bootleggers, gamblers, and manufacturers. In practically all the cases, no reports were made until after the abducted men returned home.

The victims refused, upon returning, to tell how much had been paid for their release. Many indicated they had been held in Chicago.

THIS WEEK IN THE LEGISLATURE

By United Press

A serious effort by the Minnesota legislature to dispose of major issues before it characterized the past week. With less than ten days for actual consideration left, senators and representatives spent their hours trying to agree on such knotty problems as reapportionment, automobile licensing, gasoline taxation, conservation and the Baumes law revision.

Events by days included:

Monday—The house killed a measure providing for a single conservation commissioner. Senators voted to establish Oct. 12 as Columbus Day and Oct. 9 as Leif Ericson Day.

Tuesday—The senate passed the automobile drivers license provision. The representatives reconsidered its vote Monday on the conservation measure and passed a bill providing for a five member conservation commission. They also provided for a full time parole board and gave judges discretionary powers in sentencing repeaters in revision of the Baumes law.

Wednesday—Four cent gasoline taxation was killed in the house, which also refused to establish a six day working week.

Thursday—The house passed its own reapportionment bill splitting up the present seventh district. The senate passed a measure reducing the prices of farm machinery and twine produced at the state prison at Bayport. Senators set 11 a. m. next Wednesday for consideration of the metropolitan sewerage disposal consideration.

Friday—Governor Floyd B. Olson sent a message to both houses of the legislature regarding the revision of the securities commission. The senate passed its reapportionment bill, forcing the issue to be settled in conference.

POLICE OF TWO STATES HUNT FOR FRED J. BLUMER

WIFE AND DAUGHTER SEEK TO BARGAIN SECRETLY WITH KIDNAPERS

RICH MANUFACTURER OF MONROE, WIS., WAS HELD FOR $150,000 RANSOM

Monroe, Wis., April 11.—(U.P.)—Police of two states hunted today for Fred J. Blumer, wealthy near-beer manufacturer, while his wife and 20-year-old daughter sought to bargain secretly with kidnapers who held him for $150,000 ransom.

The daughter, Marion, and her mother awaited the telephone call which the kidnapers had said they would make today. Authorities were reported to have "tapped" wires into the Blumer home and to be prepared for quick action in case relatives tried to obtain Blumer's release without giving police a chance to apprehend the kidnapers.

5 TWIN CITY DETECTIVES AND PIERCE COUNTY AUTHORITIES SURROUND FARMHOUSE

GUST SUNSTROM SURPRISED AS HE SLEPT AT PLACE NEAR RIVER FALLS, WIS.

River Falls, Wis., April 11.—(U.P.)—Five Twin City detectives and Pierce county deputies surrounded a farm house near here today and captured a suspect wanted in half a dozen middle-western cities for jail-breaking, hold-ups and automobile thefts.

The man, known as Gust Sunstrom, 22, was surprised as he slept and surrendered without reaching for a revolver that lay on a table at the bedside.

Held at Des Moines, Ia., under the federal Dyer act for automobile theft, Sunstrom with two men known as Glenn Ferriss and Richard Rebtov, sawed his way March 14 from the cell in which the three were confined.

Minnesota police who had been warned to be on the lookout for Sunstrom sighted him in the loop district yesterday. Officers gave chase but were unable to catch Sunstrom who fled in a high-powered automobile toward St. Paul.

St. Paul police took part in the chase after a filling station there was robbed of $5 by a man who answered Sunstrom's description.

Detectives were able to follow Sunstrom's trail to River Falls where they located the automobile in front of the farm house. A woman arrested with Sunstrom gave her name as Esther Peggy Cook, Davenport, Ia., and was held for questioning.

Sunstrom served sentences for auto theft at Glen Lake and Red Wing, Minn., training schools and later served a similar term in the St. Paul, Minn., reformatory.

STUDENTS WANT PROFESSORS TO TAKE EXAMINATIONS TOO

TRADITIONAL IMMUNITY OF THE PEDAGOGUES CHALLENGED BY STUDENT BODY

MINNESOTA DAILY, UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA NEWSPAPER, TAKES STAND

Minneapolis, Minn., April 11.—(U.P.)—The traditional immunity of college professors from taking examinations was challenged today by students at the University of Minnesota.

In reply to student petitions that the faculty members submit to the same Carnegie Foundation tests in culture, professors and instructors were voting on the proposal. If a majority of the tutorial staff want to take the examination, it will be given.

Seniors at the University struggled six hours with the tests and the Minnesota Daily, university student publication, expressed scathing comments on the tests and results which were obtained, saying a specialized student could have answered the puzzlers in his department but that none could answer all.

Several members of the faculty have agreed to take the quiz if others will join them. Students who took the tests said that among the hardest questions were:

Is the distance from the sun to the farthest planet less than the distance between the earth and the nearest star?

What artist is noted for his beefy nudes?

What are the themes of Beethoven's nine symphonies?

SENATE AND HOUSE AT VARIANCE IN CHANGES PLANNED

OPTIMISTIC ONES HOPE DIFFERENCES WILL BE IRONED OUT IN WEEK

SENATE CUTS AND ADDS TO 6TH DISTRICT, HOUSE ADDS 3 COUNTIES

St. Paul, Minn., April 11.—(U.P.)—The knotty problem of re-districting Minnesota in accordance with the 1930 census went to a joint conference of committees from both houses today where it was hoped that bills passed by the house and senate would be brought into agreement.

Despite a wide divergence between the senate bill which was passed late yesterday and the house bill, passed Thursday, leaders of both houses predicted that the entire problem of reducing the state's 10 congressional districts to nine will be settled within a week.

In the debate which preceded passage of the senate measure, several senators declared they had no intention of allowing the present legislative session to approach its close without a reapportionment plan being adopted.

Senator Claude H. Mackenzie of Gaylord introduced the amendment which changed the bill passed in the senate from the house bill in almost every respect.

The senate plan would leave the first, second, fourth and eighth congressional districts unchanged and would place Congressman Harold Knutson of St. Cloud and Godfrey G. Goodwin of Fergus Falls in the same district.

Goodwin, it was believed, would be given a federal judgeship to replace his congress seat. Both he and Knutson are republicans.

Under the house bill, Paul J. Kvale, farmer-laborite of the seventh, and Frank Clague, republican of the second, would be thrown together.

Here is the line-up of the bills passed by each house:

First District House—Adds Blue Earth and Faribault counties from present second district.

Senate—Unchanged.

Second District House—Combines the remaining second district with the southern half of the seventh.

Senate—Unchanged.

Third District House—Removes Hennepin and adds Brown county from the second, Meeker from the seventh and Wright from the 10th.

Senate—Retains all present counties and adds rural Hennepin and several wards from Minneapolis.

Fourth District House—Unchanged.

Senate—Unchanged.

Fifth District House—Minneapolis except four wards which are added to third.

Senate—Same as house.

The Crow Wing County Garden Flower Society met in the Chamber of Commerce rooms Thursday evening, and officers were elected for the ensuing year.

Many matters of importance were discussed and arrangements were made for both a spring and fall flower show. A committee was appointed to arrange for prizes offered at the 1930 show. A committee was also appointed to arrange for and furnish a flower garden at the Brainerd golf course and were assured that same would be taken care of.

15-YEAR-OLD YOUTH IS CHARGED WITH KILLING A NEW YORK TAILOR

New York, April 11.—(U.P.)—Fifteen-year-old Myron Hess sought nothing more in life than to be known as "Little Caesar II." But his ambitions, like those of his fictional hero, have met with defeat, and today he stood indicted on a charge of murder.

Myron, as the bold young leader of a band of three, is accused of slaying Solomon Balowitz, a tailor, during a holdup when Balowitz laughed at the incongruous picture of the youth with thick-rimmed glasses holding a large .45 calibre automatic.

Myron, like the hero of the Chicago gang novel, also was wont to boast of his leadership. He would walk around the neighborhood informing his companions that he was "Little Caesar II."

He boasted to Anita Bachus, a playmate, that he had killed a man. That and the fact that he also counted among his acquaintances a "weakling," led to his downfall. Milton Harris, 13, became frightened after the slaying of Balowitz and confessed to his mother. Mrs. Harris informed police.

BANDITS TORTURE MAN TO REVEAL $30,400 FORTUNE

Chicago, April 11.—(U.P.)—Given his choice of telling where his valuables were hidden or having his feet burned with a lighted cigar, Frank W. Means helped bandits locate more than $30,400 worth of jewels and furs which they stole from him.

Means is president of the Chicago Towel company. He and his wife, Cora, attended a theater last night and found the bandits in their home when they returned.

Our Lake Business

THIS season will see great activity in the lake country tributary to Brainerd.

It reflects the general spirit prevailing in the lake regions of the whole state. According to a survey made by the Ten Thousand Lakes Association, a half million dollars in improvements will be made throughout the state.

The Minneapolis Journal Sunday edition accords a prominent place in the headlines of its realty page to improvements at Gull lake. One completely new resort, the Rutters, is believed to have invested close to $50,000 and will open this year. Other resorts around the lake report improvements of a cottage or more.

Inwood on Gull opens a new lodge or native log construction embracing a dining hall, lounge, office and writing room.

Pine Beach Hotel adds cottages. There will be golf course improvements and landscaping done too.

Big Pelican lake, where the big attraction is Breezy Point lodge, will also record many improvements. The large resort of Captain W. H. Fawcett boasts the first large convention hall of the Brainerd district and it has been used by innumerable conventions. The first talkies in the Brainerd Lake Region were given there by the power company executives whose session was enlivened by addresses of Edison and other noted inventors and engineers, economists and statesmen.

Brainerd, in addition, will draw on the officers, guardsmen and relatives as training season opens early in June at Camp Ripley and continues three months. At Lake City, where the guardsmen first entrained, traffic problems on Sundays and holidays were so heavy as to tax the ingenuity of C. M. Babcock and the State Highway Patrol. With the new camp situated so close to the Brainerd Lake Region, thousands will be attracted to the camp and the lake region and week end, holiday and general business will be stimulated to an unheard of degree.

The Rosko airport in Brainerd is already receiving initial visitors. The other day a honeymoon couple flew here from Chicago. Last week two army officers from Fort Snelling and their aides made an inspection of the field and then flew about the lake region. Last year a record was kept of close to 100 planes that landed at the airport and visited surrounding country. Each year an increase is expected in air tourists, fishermen and hunters. Like the motoring season, airplane improvements are making year-around travel possible.

Improvements in county roads are keeping pace with the program of the state. The county commissioners are to be commended in showing such fine spirit and hearty interest in working for the good of the whole county. The bituminous treatment of No. 18 from Garrison to Brainerd is one of the possibilities of the near future.

On all sides in the lake country and in Brainerd one feels the optimistic spirit pervading. We expect a big business and have the indications at hand to show it.

What Is Rotary?

CARL ZAPFKE some time ago gave an address on Rotary at the local club which contained so many apt expressions and carried so much deep thought on the subject that the Dispatch is glad to quote some of Mr. Zapfke's conclusions.

Rotary presents not a single new thought, said Mr. Zapfke, but it is based on principles as old as the history of the human race. Rotary is a means of applying old truths to new conditions. That old truth is the Golden Rule.

Rotary is not a secret organization. It has no ritual or password. It is not a Chamber of Commerce or a Commercial club.

It does not place wealth above character. It endorses no one creed in preference to another. It does not exalt business success above civic and social duty. It does not countenance selfishness in its members. It does not exist for its members alone.

Rotary is a permanent contribution to economic and social development.

Rotary is not organized to run anything, except itself. It is an educational institution. You learn of your city's need and of your country's need; you study their problems; and each member applies himself where he can render the most service or in the manner best suited according to his own qualifications. Rotary makes Rotarians work only as worthy citizens. It is inspirational to its members.

Really Looking Up

FARM land prices are due to rise. And when they go up in Crow Wing county, realty in Brainerd will feel the sympathetic movement.

Brainerd faces an encouraging future. Improvements in lake conditions, farming country, school extensions, the optimistic spirit generally prevailing is bound to create and bring more new business to the city.

That optimism is being reflected by service clubs, Chamber of Commerce, fraternal and other organizations.

Ask an outsider about Brainerd and invariably the answer is: "Brainerd is a good town." That's short, but it means a whole lot.

WE had too much ice in our lakes to send out any stories of early swimming during the recent heat wave. Ten persons were reported swimming in Faribault, one girl at Rochester and dozens in the Twin Cities.

PRISON life in Brainerd has been made more endurable. The sheriff's wife has provided chinaware, plates, cups and saucers, to take the place of the old tin plates and cups.

DELEGATES from 19 midwestern colleges will represent students international relations clubs in a two-day convocation to be held April 17 and 18 at Carleton College, Northfield.

TAXICAB drivers are put to some inconvenience collecting their fares at times. A St. Paul driver had a man arrested charged with defrauding him out of five cents.

ABABY boy was born on a street tramcar in Winnipeg last week and the conductor was worried about the extra fare.

"FOREST LOVE" by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

CHAPTER LI

MACKIMMONS lowered his voice. "Gee I don't know what to think. She's got both legs broke and she's running an awful high fever. Maybe she's out of her head. But she lets on that her husband ran amuck or something and knocked her off, and then knocked somebody else off. I can't make out who."

Pete whistled. Slim said, "Attempted murder, eh? Well, it don't surprise me none. He give her enough dirty looks, and he had plenty of alibis fixed to make it look like she creel over by herself. Cripes, it's just like a detective story!"

"Are you sure he was dead? Better let me go back and look for the body!" Pete put in excitedly. "Nuts! He's dead as a mackerel. You stick with us. We've got to get her out, and it won't be easy with those broken legs. And then we've got to look to see if there's anybody else. Leave the dead man alone, he'll keep."

The Shock.

Mackimmons decided upon a blanket stretcher and a line from the boulder. But first they'd have to do a little first aid and splint her legs.

Pete thought he could do it if he had the right kind of sticks, and something to use for packing. Maybe the tall grass down by the river. While Mackimmons and Slim were rigging the stretcher Pete took the best flashlight and went to look for his grass and sticks.

He wasn't gone very long. He came running back, breathless and empty handed. "Gosh, fellows! There's a man down there. I fell over him. Gave him an awful clout. But I guess he won't care. He looks dead, all right. It's . . . say, you're going to feel bad about this, Mackimmons. . . . It's what's his name . . . the fellow you work with—Decatur!"

"Decatur! Decatur . . . dead!" With one leap Mackimmons was off the trail thrashing about in the underbrush, forgetting even his flash light.

Mackimmons had found his friend when they got to him. But Roger Decatur was not dead. He lay back in Mackimmons' arms, and managed a grin. Pete's kick had brought him to.

"Where did you fall from?"

"How did it happen?"

"Are you hurt bad?"

"They asked a dozen questions but he just croaked. 'Water . . . swallowed a whole peck of dirt . . . wonder if I can walk?'"

By this time Anita's cries were loud and angry.

"For Heavens sake, what's that?" Roger asked.

"Oh, some old dame fell off the high trail," Mackimmons said.

"Say can you two fellows get ner? If you think you can, I'll stay here with old Decatur."

"Then we can figure how we'll all get out of here."

"You might . . . tell me what happened," Roger said when they were alone.

Mackimmons began hesitating. "Well, I don't rightly know. I was coming through the low trail when I saw this bird and his horse, both dead near the river. Darned if I can figure how the fool went over there. It's about the one place on that high trail where a horse COULDN'T slip. Still, there they were . . . I was beating it for a telephone . . . when I heard this woman crying. I don't know whether she's nuts or not. She . . . shucks . . . here they come!"

Roger lay back in Mackimmons' arms and managed a grin.

Either they've gagged her or she's worn herself out at last. First time she's been quiet in two hours!"

The woman looked like death, but when they laid the improvised stretcher on the trail near Roger she reached a hand toward him and said "Thank you for trying to . . . to help me . . ."

For a moment her helplessness touched them, but almost instantly it passed. "He'll pay for it!" she sobbed. "I won't lift a finger to save him!"

The men moved uneasily. She'd have to be told he was dead . . . Mackimmons opened his mouth to speak, but she drowned him out:

"I don't care who knows it . . . the whole world . . . He tried to kill me . . . to marry her . . . oh! I can't bear it . . . oh . . . but she won't go free, I'll see she suffers too. Write her name down. Nancy Hollenbeck of Piedmont. . . Oh, why don't you help me? I'm so . . . so SICK!"

"Decatur's out again!" Mackimmons cried. "Get some water . . . no, let me hold it . . . oh, gag that woman, I can't stand that crying—make her shut up!"

"Shut up, lady," Pete commanded.

Anita's sobs died down to a whimper.

"I'm all right, Mac," Roger said at last. "I didn't go out really . . . just a . . . a pain . . ."

Breaking the News.

"Let's get out of here, then!" Slim was anxious to start back.

"Pete and I can carry the litter with the lady, and Mac can hold Decatur on a horse if he thinks he can stand it . . . think you can make it as far as the road, old man?"

"I don't know about that. We don't know how bad he's hurt," Pete cut in uneasily.

"Oh, I'm all right. I can make it. Only before we go we ought to get this lady's story straight. It's going to mean trouble if—"

"I guess you don't understand," Mackimmons interrupted gently.

"Your husband is . . . well . . . that is . . . He found he couldn't quite say it."

"You tell her, Slim!"

"Well, you see, madam—"

Anita held her breath.

Roger Decatur lifted his head from Mackimmons' supporting shoulder. "Let me talk to her, fellows. I'm in on this. I'm afraid"

POLICE DEPARTMENT RADIO IS A CRIME PREVENTATIVE

One of the services of radio which is receiving little mention in proportion to the amount of good it is doing, is that of police communication.

In many of our large cities, the majority of the policemen now patrol their beats in motorcars instead of on foot, and these cars are equipped with radio receivers which keep them in constant communication with headquarters.

Formerly, when a report of a robbery or some other crime was telephoned to police headquarters, it was necessary to send out a detail from the nearest police station, or to wait until the policeman on the neighborhood beat made his next periodic call. It would frequently happen that a minimum of five or ten minutes would be required for the detail from the station to reach the site of the crime. In the meantime, there might be a policeman patrolling his beat only a block or two away, but there would be no means of getting in touch with him.

Today, the story is entirely different. A telephone call is received that a crime is being committed at a certain street number. Immediately the police broadcasting station calls the patrol car cruising nearest that street number. In a few seconds time, police are speeding to the designated point and the chances are very good that they will arrive in time to capture the criminal. The speed and efficiency of the new system is vastly greater than that of the old.

Some people have the mistaken idea that such broadcasting of police information is dangerous because anyone with the proper equipment, including criminals themselves, may listen in. They do not realize, however, that the broadcasts are not for the purpose of distributing secret information, but for directing patrols to the scene of trouble in the quickest time possible. If this information gets into the wrong hands, it makes no difference—in fact, it may work out advantageously in making those who plan crimes more timid about executing them.

"For Heavens sake, what's that?" Roger asked.

"Oh, some old dame fell off the high trail," MacKimmmons said.

"Say can you two fellows get ner? If you think you can, I'll stay here with old Decatur. . . . Then we can figure how we'll all get out of here."

"You might . . . tell me what happened," Roger said when they were alone.

MacKimmmons began hesitantly. "Well, I don't rightly know. I was coming through the low trail when I saw this bird and his horse, both dead near the river. Darned if I can figure how the fool went over there. It's about the one place on that high trail where a horse COULDN'T slip. Still, there they were . . . I was beating it for a telephone when I heard this woman crying. I don't know whether she's nuts or not. She . . . shucks . . . here they come!"

Roger lay back in MacKimmmons' arms and managed a grin.

Either they've gagged her or she's worn herself out at last. First time she's been quiet in two hours!"

The woman looked like death, but when they laid the improvised stretcher on the trail near Roger she reached a hand toward him and said "Thank you for trying to . . . to help me . . ."

For a moment her helplessness touched them, but almost instantly it passed. "He'll pay for it!" she sobbed. "I won't lift a finger to save him!"

The men moved uneasily. She'd have to be told he was dead. MacKimmmons opened his mouth to speak, but she drowned him out:

"I don't care who knows it . . . the whole world . . . He tried to kill me . . . to marry her . . . oh! I can't bear it . . . ooh . . . but she won't go free, I'll see she suffers too. Write her name down, Nancy Hollenbeck of Piedmont. Oh, why don't you help me? I'm so . . . so SICK!"

"Decatur's out again!" MacKimmmons cried. "Get some water . . . no, let me hold it . . . oh, gag that woman, I can't stand that crying—make her shut up!"

"Shut up, lady," Pete commanded. Anita's sobs died down to a whimper.

"I'm all right, Mac," Roger said at last. "I didn't go out really . . . just a . . . a pain . . ."

Breaking the News.

"Let's get out of here, then!" Slim was anxious to start back. "Pete and I can carry the litter with the lady, and Mac can hold Decatur on a horse if he thinks he can stand it . . . think you can make it as far as the road, old man?"

"I don't know about that. We don't know how bad he's hurt," Pete cut in uneasily.

"Oh, I'm all right. I can make it. Only before we go we ought to get this lady's story straight. It's going to mean trouble if—"

"I guess you don't understand," MacKimmmons interrupted gently. "Your husband is . . . well . . . that is . . . He found he couldn't quite say it."

"You tell her, Slim!" "Well, you see, madam—" Anita held her breath.

Roger Decatur lifted his head from MacKimmmons' supporting shoulder. "Let me talk to her, fellows. I'm in on this. I'm afraid

POLICE DEPARTMENT RADIO IS A CRIME PREVENTATIVE

One of the services of radio which is receiving little mention in proportion to the amount of good it is doing, is that of police communication.

In many of our large cities, the majority of the policemen now patrol their beats in motorcars instead of on foot, and these cars are equipped with radio receivers which keep them in constant communication with headquarters.

Formerly, when a report of a robbery or some other crime was telephoned to police headquarters, it was necessary to send out a detail from the nearest police station, or to wait until the policeman on the neighborhood beat made his next periodic call. It would frequently happen that a minimum of five or ten minutes would be required for the detail from the station to reach the site of the crime. In the meantime, there might be a policeman patrolling his beat only a block or two away, but there would be no means of getting in touch with him.

Today, the story is entirely different. A telephone call is received that a crime is being committed at a certain street number. Immediately the police broadcasting station calls the patrol car cruising nearest that street number. In a few seconds time, police are speeding to the designated point and the chances are very good that they will arrive in time to capture the criminal. The speed and efficiency of the new system is vastly greater than that of the old.

Some people have the mistaken idea that such broadcasting of police information is dangerous because anyone with the proper equipment, including criminals themselves, may listen in. They do not realize, however, that the broadcasts are not for the purpose of distributing secret information, but for directing patrols to the scene of trouble in the quickest time possible. If this information gets into the wrong hands, it makes no difference—in fact, it may work out advantageously in making those who plan crimes more timid about executing them.

Newspaper Ads to Tell Results of Track Test

Advertising in 1,614 newspapers in 1,459 cities and towns of 13 states will be the key stone of the campaign which Standard Oil of Indiana will conduct this year on motor oils. This newspaper is one of the list selected by the advertising agency handling the campaign.

The newspaper advertising will follow on a novel and elaborate test of the oils which was conducted on the Indianapolis speedway from March 17 to April 9 by experts of the American Automobile Association. Standard of Indiana purchased 13 different makes of stock cars and put them at the disposal of the association for the test. These included a Ford, Chevrolet, Pontiac, Buick, Oldsmobile, Chrysler, Studebaker, Hudson, Cadillac, Willys-Knight, Nash, Cord, and Reo.

Data as to consumption, dilution, carbon-forming characteristics, efficiency of the lubrication, and other details were carefully gathered and recorded by the A. A. A. officials and will be presented in the series of ads by which the company will this year undertake to inform automobile dealers as well as motorists as to the fine points of good lubrication of cars.

Radio was brought into the campaign to announce the conclusion of the test at the speedway, and booklets, direct mail, and other advertising helps are to be used. But newspaper ads will be the chief medium through which the company will endeavor to make known to the public the proof of its claims furnished by the Indianapolis speedway test.

What Is a Boy Scout? This Series Explains

(The Brainerd Dispatch has arranged to present a series of articles giving information concerning the Boy Scouts of America and of the Brainerd district. Look for these articles to learn the facts. For further information write to the council office at St. Cloud, Minn. Address: Boy Scouts of America, St. Cloud, Minn.)

Can You?

Every now and then you hear some criticism of the Boy Scouts; some complimentary remark concerning what scouts do etc. The following is taken from a letter in answer just to such a remark and it is written so well that it will be reproduced in part.

"Now, Mr. ————, come down off your perch and submit to a showdown. Tell us, on the level, can you tie a knot with a heavy rope that will not slip and yet is easily untied when the strain is released, or can you tie a bow-line? Do you know the history of the American flag, and the customary respect due it? Any Tenderfoot Scout can. Can you lay out a mile track without measuring it? Can you build a fire in the open, without paper with material found on the spot, using not more than two matches? Can you cook meat and bake potatoes on an open fire without cooking utensils? Can you send an intelligent message to a person a half mile away by Morse code, using a flag or a flashlight? Can you treat a case of shock, sprain, bruise, burn or a severe cut on the head, arm, foot, leg or face, applying either a triangle or roller bandage? Can you by artificial respiration, revive a person unconscious from drowning, smoke, gas, or electrical contact? Can you? Any second class scout can.

"Can you treat a case of snake bite or mad-dog bite, poisoning, gas or electrical accidents? Do you know the difference in the symptoms of heat exhaustion and sunstroke, and can you treat them? Do you know the contact points for stopping arterial bleeding? Can you improvise and apply a tourniquet? Do you know the difference between a simple and a compound fracture, and can you treat these, applying the proper splint? Can you improvise a carrier and transport an injured person? Can you make a hunter's stew and bake 'twist' on a stick over an open fire? Can you identify ten species of trees or plants, including poison ivy and oak, by their leaves, bark, flower and scent? Can you? Any first class scout can.

"Can you identify in the field forty specimens of wild birds and describe their habits, songs, colorings and food? Can you identify in the same way ten birds useful in protecting trees from insects and ten birds of prey useful in destroying rats and mice? Can you start a fire in any kind of weather using only the friction method of bow and drill, or flint and steel and with only native tinder? Can you construct a lean-to-shelter and a bed from native materials found in the woods, suitable for protection in any kind of weather, summer or winter, and sleep there over night? Can you construct a raft which will carry two persons, using only native materials, without nails or ropes? Can you splice a rope? Can you tow to safety a drowning person of your own weight in deep water, and using any of 14 different carries? Can you break a wrist hold or a strangle hold of a drowning person? Can you undress in the water—shoes, stockings and all—and then swim a distance of 100 yards? Can you do all of the above? Any Eagle Scout can and considerably more."

Can you? Any second class scout can.

Can you? Any first class scout can.

ACCLAIM EFFORTS IN CLASS OFFERING

800 Attend Fine Performance of Senior Class in "The Road to Yesterday"

Students soon to graduate from the Brainerd high school, members of the faculty, the school orchestra and Brainerd merchants united in making the season's biggest stage attraction of the school year a success at the Washington high school auditorium last evening.

Close to 800 parents and children heartily applauded the efforts of the actors and actresses, the musicians and in the same voiced their appreciation for the efforts of those whose presence was not in the front.

Miss Madge True, art director in Brainerd schools and students in the Brainerd high, created the colorful setting for the courtyard of Goody Phelps Inn back in 1603. Woodwork was by F. W. Rosel and students in his manual training department.

Those back of the scenes who come in for credit for fine work are: Eldred Rasch who acted as business manager; Miss Mary Tornstrom, principal of the school as director; Janet Kampmann in charge of properties; Miss True as art director; Mr. Rosel, Mr. Penrose, Arthur Hedlund, Gaylord Anderson, Arthur Brown, Marion Mitchell, George Fox, Lawrence Wollast, Ted Frank, John Linn.

Music was under the direction of Miss Coffa Rickard with Miss Lorraine Morrison at the piano. Special solos were rendered by Donald Marshall, cornetist; Howard Gile, trombonist. Twenty-two musicians were in the orchestra pit, 11 of the members being violinists.

The play of the evening "The Road to Yesterday" was capably cast and produced well. It was offered by 15 senior class students, ten of whom played dual roles.

The opening scene was in the modern era, the second and third in the Stuart period in English history and the final the present again. Its plot was interesting, holding the attention of the audience throughout.

The play centered about the dreams of a modern miss who was carried back to the days of England in 1603. There her friends took life. Her experiences convinced her that she was fortunate to live in 1931. She saw her friends in new characters and her experience in the whole was disappointing to her. The gallantries and romantic life as she had pictured were changed to persecution, villainy and witchcraft.

Helen Sheets was the girl in the role of Elsie Tyrell in the present era and Lady Elizabeth Tyrell in the Stuart period. She was charming.

Alice Nolan whose roles as Norah Gillaw, the maid and Mother Gillaw the witch were the most difficult and required the greatest dramatic effort displayed unusual talent and ability.

Bernice Steinfeldt as Aunt Harriet Phelps in the modern era and Goody Phelps, the Innkeeper in the transformation was also among the principals.

The male lead was upheld staunchly by George Irvine. Those in assisting roles were: James Garvey, Carl Holvick, Edman Jernberg, Elizabeth Irvine, Mildred Johnson, Vina Gilmer, Gerald Cass, Joseph Hogan, Joseph Armstrong, Kenneth Stimson, Lyle Mayo.

Three Children's Acts in American Legion Auxiliary Band Concert Friday

There will be three children's acts in part two of the American Legion Auxiliary band concert next Friday evening with 30 children taking part. Everyone enjoys seeing the little tots perform and the public will not be disappointed this year as the kiddies take a very important part in the program.

The first act will be the French Doll chorus, composed of 16 little girls, dressed in gaudy frocks of pastel shades, with hats to match. They will do a novelty doll dance. Those taking part are Marjorie Bath, Latona Finch, Virginia Hadersback, Emogene Hall, Kathryn Jones, Betty Lee, Marys McGinn, Ethel Pfremmer, Elaine Popastolou, Beatrice Potter, Geraldine Samuelson, Betty Schomaker, Ione Smith, Bonnie Jean Soderlund, Beverly Jean Stallman and Dorothy Stevens.

The Miller twins, Jackie and Jimmy, who have been among the most popular juvenile entertainers during the past year, will sing the Tin Pan Parade.

A Stack of Black Cats will do a novelty rough and tumble dance and song act with Howard Hill as the solo cat. The Black Cats are composed of ten boys, dressed in black cat costumes. They are: Russel Fitzsimmons, Roger Holden, Howard Hill, Billy Cochran, Lyle Korum, Charles Dunnell, Melvin Dybvik, Larry Sundberg, John Dale—Whitlock and Edward Vaars.

St. Paul, April 11.—(E.P.)—John Frantz, 28, who stole a Duluth police squad car to stage a series of robberies in Wisconsin, was turned over to the St. Croix county, Wis., sheriff today to face robbery charges. Frantz waived extradition after being arrested Thursday by St. Paul detectives for stealing an overcoat from George Evans, Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., his roommate.

Under questioning, Frantz admitted he had stolen the police car in Duluth and went to Menominee, Wis., to rob a restaurant. In attempting to escape he smashed the car on the outskirts of Menominee. He stole another car, he said, and went to Knapp, Wis., where he held up a cafe, taking a gun away from a policeman who was in the place.

Newspaper Ads to Tell Results of Track Test

Advertising in 1,614 newspapers in 1,459 cities and towns of 13 states will be the keystone of the campaign which Standard Oil of Indiana will conduct this year on motor oils.

This newspaper is one of the list selected by the advertising agency handling the campaign.

The newspaper advertising will follow on a novel and elaborate test of the oils which was conducted on the Indianapolis speedway from March 17 to April 9 by experts of the American Automobile Association.

Standard of Indiana purchased 13 different makes of stock cars and put them at the disposal of the association for the test.

The cars included a Ford, Chevrolet, Pontiac, Buick, Oldsmobile, Chrysler, Studebaker, Hudson, Cadillac, Willys-Knight, Nash, Cord, and Reo.

Data as to consumption, dilution, carbon-forming characteristics, efficiency of the lubrication, and other details were carefully gathered and recorded by the A. A. A. officials and will be presented in the series of ads by which the company will this year undertake to inform automobile dealers as well as motorists as to the fine points of good lubrication of cars.

Radio was brought into the campaign to announce the conclusion of the test at the speedway, and booklets, direct mail, and other advertising helps are to be used. But newspaper ads will be the chief medium through which the company will endeavor to make known to the public the proof of its claims furnished by the Indianapolis speedway test.

For further information write to the council office at St. Cloud, Minn. Address: Boy Scouts of America, St. Cloud, Minn.)

Can You? Every now and then you hear some criticism of the Boy Scouts; some complimentary remark concerning what scouts do etc. The following is taken from a letter in answer just to such a remark and it is written so well that it will be reproduced in part.

"Now, Mr. _____, come down off your perch and submit to a showdown. Tell us, on the level, can you tie a knot with a heavy rope that will not slip and yet is easily untied when the strain is released, or can you tie a bow-line? Do you know the history of the American flag, and the customary respect due it? Any Tenderfoot Scout can. Can you lay out a mile track without measuring it? Can you build a fire in the open, without paper, with material found on the spot, using not more than two matches? Can you cook meat and bake potatoes on an open fire without cooking utensils? Can you send an intelligent message to a person a half mile away by Morse code, using a flag or a flashlight? Can you treat a case of shock, sprain, bruise, burn or a severe cut on the head, arm, foot, leg or face, applying either a triangle or roller bandage? Can you by artificial respiration, revive a person unconscious from drowning, smoke, gas, or electrical contact? Can you? Any second class scout can.

"Can you treat a case of snake bite or mad-dog bite, poisoning, gas or electrical accidents? Do you know the difference in the symptoms of heat exhaustion and sunstroke, and can you treat them? Do you know the contact points for stopping arterial bleeding? Can you improvise and apply a tourniquet? Do you know the difference between a simple and a compound fracture, and can you treat these, applying the proper splint? Can you improvise a carrier and transport an injured person? Can you make a hunter's stew and bake 'twist' on a stick over an open fire? Can you identify ten species of trees or plants, including poison ivy and oak, by their leaves, bark, flower and scent? Can you? Any first class scout can.

"Can you identify in the field forty specimens of wild birds and describe their habits, songs, colorings and food? Can you identify in the same way ten birds useful in protecting trees from insects and ten birds of prey useful in destroying rats and mice? Can you start a fire in any kind of weather using only the friction method of bow and drill, or flint and steel and with only native tinder? Can you construct a lean-to-shelter and a bed from native materials found in the woods, suitable for protection in any kind of weather, summer or winter, and sleep there over night? Can you construct a raft which will carry two persons, using only native materials, without nails or ropes? Can you splice a rope? Can you tow to safety a drowning person of your own weight, in deep water, and using any of 14 different carries? Can you break a wrist hold or a strangle hold of a drowning person? Can you undress in the water—shoes, stockings and all—and then swim a distance of 100 yards? Can you do all of the above? Any Eagle Scout can and considerably more."

May Decide Hockey Championship Tonight

Montreal, April 11.—(UP)—The 1931 world's professional hockey championship may be decided tonight when the Chicago Blackhawks and Montreal Les Canadiens meet in the fourth game of the Stanley cup series.

The Blackhawks, with two victories in the three games that have been played, can clinch the title by winning tonight. Should the Les Canadiens win and even the series, the fifth and deciding game will be played Thursday night.

SETS NEW SWIM RECORD

Helen Madison, sensational young mermaid of Seattle, continued her world record breaking tactics Tuesday night at Chicago in the 220-yard free style event of the Washington A. C.-Illinois Women's A. C. dual meet by clipping five seconds from the record set by Gertrude Ederle in 1924. The old record of 2:41.2, which Miss Ederle has held seven years, was lowered by Miss Madison to 2:36.2.

Girl Tosser Strikes Out Babe

A 17-year-old girl, Verne Beatrice Mitchell, has gained an enviable spot in baseball's hall of fame by striking out two of the greatest sluggers of all time, Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig. The feat was accomplished in the first inning of an exhibition game between the Yankees and the Chattanooga Lookouts, of which Verne (nicknamed Jackie) is a regularly signed member, before an enthusiastic crowd in the Tennessee city. The mighty Bambino is shown as he congratulated his fair opponent after the game, which the Yankees won.

weight championship bout will be held at Cleveland July 3, according to an official announcement by General John V. Chinnin, president of the National Boxing association.

Jack Sharkey, who previously has refused to engage in any except championship bouts, has agreed tentatively to box four times this summer under the promotion of James J. Johnston.

The tentative program calls for the Bostonian to meet Primo Carnera in June, Mickey Walker in July, Tommy Loughran in August and the survivor of the Max Schmeling-Young Stribling "championship" bout in September.

CUBS AND CARDS APPEAR TO BE CLASS IN LEAGUE

BOTH EXPERIENCED MORE THAN THEIR SHARE OF MISFORTUNE LAST YEAR

CARDINALS HAVE THE ADVANTAGE OF CONFIDENCE IN COMING RACE

By HENRY McLEMORE
United Press Staff Correspondent
New York, April 11.—With no less than five clubs conceded better than a fighting chance to win top honors, naming a 1931 National league winner is a thankless task indeed.

The season just around the corner promises an even hotter fight than last year's campaign when only forty games separated the pennant-winning St. Louis Cardinals and the tail-end Phillies, and the first division clubs were bunched closer than the next second.

Two of the clubs—Cincinnati and Philadelphia—can safely be counted out of the race, and it would require another "miracle team" like that of 1914 to bring Boston a pennant. The remaining five teams must all be considered pennant possibilities.

Judging the teams as they stand today and disregarding all future developments such as injuries, trades and the like, the clubs, in this writer's opinion, will finish in the following order:

1. St. Louis Cardinals.
2. Chicago Cubs.
3. Brooklyn Robins.
4. New York Giants.
5. Pittsburgh Pirates.
6. Boston Braves.
7. Philadelphia Phillies.
8. Cincinnati Reds.

The Cubs and Cards appear to be the class of the league. Both clubs experienced more than their share of misfortune last year. The death of Hal Carlson, the loss of Rogers Hornsby for almost the entire season and Charley Root's late season collapse prevented the Cubs from winning their second successive flag, while countless injuries all but felled the Cardinals.

The Cardinals have the advantage of confidence, built up in their mad sprint during the final 55 games of the 1930 season. It was this half-breath dash which brought them home in front of the Cubs by two games. In addition, Manager Gabby Street has the finest pitching staff in the major leagues backed by plenty of power at the plate. The Cubs' defense, with the scintillating Frankie Frisch at second base, is air-tight.

The return of Hornsby and Root and the acquisition of several seasoned pitchers has given the Cubs strength sufficient to make a battle of it all the way. The Cubs' big worry is harmony. Or rather a lack of harmony. Hornsby's elevation to the manager's post was unpopular with many of the players and if friction develops the team might well drop into the second division.

Brooklyn, because of tremendous batting strength, is a distinct threat and might better its way to the top. The club, however, is top-heavy with left-handed hitters, lacks defensive skill and is not overly smart. The pitching staff is only fair.

Weak pitching spoiled the Giants' hopes last season and is expected to do the same thing this season.

The Pirates are unchanged from last season except at shortstop where the trade of Bartel for Thiekenow should improve the defense but weaken the attack. The club is fairly strong at bat but lacks dependable pitching.

4 OF THE CLUB ARE BATTLING FOR CITY CHAMPIONSHIP

New York, April 11.—Nine major league baseball teams made their 1931 home debuts today with four of the clubs battling for city championships.

The 1931 editions of the New York Giants and Yankees, St. Louis Cardinals and Browns, Boston Braves and Red Sox, Cincinnati Reds, Detroit Tigers and Brooklyn Robins displayed their wares before home fans for the first time this season in exhibition games.

At St. Louis and Boston, however, the games are more than merely exhibition contests for the city championship is at stake. Each series is but two games, so it is probable that the civic titles may not be decided. On paper the Cardinals and Braves are heavy favorites to down their American League rivals.

Cleveland will aid Cincinnati in opening the season at the Reds' Park while Pittsburgh opposes Detroit on the Tigers' home soil. The New York spring series clash at the Polo grounds in their fifteenth encounter while at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, the Robins and Yankees will meet.

In addition to Cleveland, Pittsburgh and the White Sox, the Chicago Cubs are rounding out their spring exhibition games on the road. They are now engaged in a series with the Kansas City American Association Club at Kansas City.

After the exhibition games today and Sunday all but two of the 16 teams will rest until the opening gestures in the pennant campaigns Tuesday.

The Chicago White Sox and New York Giants have exhibition games scheduled for Monday. The Giants will journey to West Point for a game with the Army while the White Sox will meet the Toledo American Association team at the Ohio city.

SHOW HOME TOWN FANS THEIR WARES IN EXHIBITION GAMES

4 OF THE CLUB ARE BATTLING FOR CITY CHAMPIONSHIPS

By LEO H. PETERSEN (United Press Staff Correspondent) New York, April 11.—Nine major league baseball teams made their 1931 home debuts today with four of the clubs battling for city championships.

The 1931 editions of the New York Giants and Yankees, St. Louis Cardinals and Browns, Boston Braves and Red Sox, Cincinnati Reds, Detroit Tigers and Brooklyn Robins displayed their wares before home fans for the first time this season in exhibition games.

At St. Louis and Boston, however, the games are more than merely exhibition contests for the city championship is at stake. Each series is but two games, so it is probable that the civic titles may not be decided. On paper the Cardinals and Braves are heavy favorites to down their American League rivals.

Cleveland will aid Cincinnati in opening the season at the Red Sox Park while Pittsburgh opposes Detroit on the Tigers' home soil. The New York spring series clash at the Polo Grounds is their fifteenth encounter while at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, the Robins and Yankees will meet.

In addition to Cleveland, Pittsburgh and the White Sox, the Chicago Cubs are rounding out their spring exhibition games on the road. They are now engaged in a series with the Kansas City American Association Club at Kansas City.

After the exhibition games today and Sunday all but two of the 16 teams will rest until the opening gestures in the pennant campaigns Tuesday.

The Chicago White Sox and New York Giants have exhibition games scheduled for Monday. The Giants will journey to West Point for a game with the Army while the White Sox will meet the Toledo American Association team at the Ohio city.

The Cardinals have the advantage of confidence, built up in their mad sprint during the final 55 games of the 1930 season. It was this hair-breadth dash which brought them home in front of the Cubs by two games. In addition, Manager Gabby Street has the finest pitching staff in the major leagues backed by plenty of power at the plate. The Cubs' defense, with the scintillating Frankie Frisch at second base, is air-tight.

The return of Hornsby and Root and the acquisition of several seasoned pitchers has given the Cubs strength sufficient to make a battle of it all the way. The Cubs' big worry is harmony. Or rather a lack of harmony. Hornsby's elevation to the manager's post was unpopular with many of the players and if friction develops the team might well drop into the second division.

Brooklyn, because of tremendous batting strength, is a distinct threat and might batter its way to the top. The club, however, is top-heavy with left-handed hitters, lacks defensive skill and is not overly smart. The pitching staff is only fair.

Weak pitching spoiled the Giants' hopes last season and is expected to do the same thing this season.

The Pirates are unchanged from last season except at shortstop where the trade of Bartel for Thevenow should improve the defense but weaken the attack. The club is fairly strong at bat but lacks dependable pitching.
